Scenes of Wild Enthusiasm at the Polo Grounds This Afternoon.

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, July 1. Kaleidescopic indeed was the spectacle at these grounds this afternoon when the two bitterest rivals for supremacy at college athletics, Yale and Harvard, met in bold array for the baseball championship of the college world. Each hise had won one game: so-day was the third and days on the same of the sam

Then the Yales went into the field, and Mason, of Harvard, lined up as the first man to take his medicine from the elongated Carter, whose 6 feet 4 inches of attenuated personality made a striking contrast to the bowlegged little catcher for Harvard.

Began with a Home Rus.

Pirst Inning.—The very first crack Mason made at Carter's waist-bigh in-shoot sent it swiring into deep centre, and the little catcher never stopped sprinting like a demon until he made the nicest home run one

Harvard men went mad.

Harvard men went mad.
Carter was milled, and he sent 'em in like meteoric streaks, striking Abbott out as easy as wink.
Then, the Yale boat crew entered the grounds clad in white flannel suits, and there was another how.

Arbuthnot muffed a high foul-fly of Hallowell's and Redsie duplicated an easy one in excerable fashion.
Hallowell raised a corker to centre which was gobbled by Laurie Hills artist alty.

Just a Little Kick.

Just a Little Kick. Capt. Frothingham, of Harvare, made a kick against Carter, and claimed he stepped outside the pitcher's box. The distance was measured and the box lines were changed, though a base ou balls. Frothingham's aerial sallo, dropped into Bliss's mittens and the Harvard side was out. One run.

Yate Draws as Opening Blank.

Big Jack Highlands, towering like a Spartan, stalked moudily into the box and folded his arms like a gladiator.

Murphy hit the first one pitched, and it rose like a rocket only to fall like lead into Sullivan's muchaginous mawleys and the batter was out. Highlands made a gorgous stop of Second Uniting—Cook fanned the atmosphere ingioriously, and couldn't hit even a balloon. He weat out, one, two, three strikes. Then came the miguty Highlands, statuesque as a Thracian. He belted the pellet hard enough, but it settled into Bliss's hands. Sullivan out on a grounder to Murphy, who nipped it beautifully and had it at Stephensons hillock yards ahead of the batsman. stephenson sampled Highlands's best deceivers for three phantom swipes. It was pretty work indeed by Highlands. Speer farruped a crack-a-jack high into centre, but Hallowell was beneath it.

Bliss succumbed to big Jack's clusive curves and the red flag waved triumphant. No runs.

Trafferd's Peer Luck.

Third Insing.—Trafford declared out on three strikes after Umpire Curry first declared him safe for being hit by pitched ball. Mason's baby fly in front of the plate was easily anapped up by Carter and Abbott's grounder to Murphy was fielded nicely. No runs.

runs.

Arbuthnot sent a buntling to Highlands, who threw the batter out to Trafford. Kednie fell a victim to the Highlands's puzziers and never got more than a single foul out or all the balls pitched.

Highlands treated his rival pitcher Carter just as Harrard men wished to see him. He hooled him into punting a weak bunt to pitcher's box, and Jack shot the ball to Trafford, killing Carter at that base. No runs.

New Harvard Worries 'Em.

Fourth Inning—Hallowell sifted an easy one past Carter, who couldn't yank it off the grass, and the runner next it but to first. Upton litted a deceiving short fly into left and Hallowell made third on it.

Upton stole second without trouble. Frothingham hit to Carter, who runs Hallowell down between third and the plate. It was a good play.

Cook base on balls, and the hillooks each held a red-legged Harvard man, with a grand chance for a run.

Highlands was then up and it was a great

The delicate Murphy, of Yale, pasted one just an inch too high for Sullivan, who jumped and made a dulay stop, but Murphy was at the base ahead of the bail. He stole second oleverly and got to third on a passed Speer then did the trick for the blues. He sent the pellet into short right for two bases and both Murphy and Beall crossed the plate. Bliss struck out, but Yale rooters havind. Two runs.

No Euro to the Fifth.

No Russ is the Fifth.

Fifth Inning—Mason's high foul fly way back to the grand stand was captured by Kedrie. Abbott struck cut and made six men aiready fooled by the wedge shaped biother from New Haven. Hallowell made the seventh. No runs.

Highland's record up to this inning was five men struck out.

Arbuthnot hit to Frothingham and the ball bounded against Frothy's knoe, allowing the runner to rest safely at first.

The blue-hosed and steel-colored bloused lads from New Haven trotted on in double-quick order, and the hills above Macomb's Dam reverberated with the cohoing cheers of the New Haven college men.

"Handseeme Dan" Out Again.

Beall trotted out "Handsome Dan," the mascot, who again kissed the plate for luck. Yale roosters howied and danced like fervishes.

Stephenson's easy fly to Cook was muffed. Mason was hit in the knee by a foul tip off Speers, and he had to rest for repairs.

Mason resumed play amid cheers. Blephenson was caught napping off first base by Highlands. Speer struck out. Bliss hit to about, who threw him out to Trafford. No chambions causes.

Then the Yales limbered up a bit and every little play and by play was watched with practices.

Presently the gong sounded for the teams to prepare for the fray, and by that time the grand stand was filled in both balconies and the stand wa s Mason guing along to third. Mason scored on the control hit to Murphy, who threw wretches to to stephenson.

Frothingham hit to the centre field ropes for three bases, scoring Upton, and was himself put out trying to make a home run. Two runs.

Time called, Frothingham having twisted his ankle and Stephenson having been spiked in this tast half inning.

Arbuthnet hit betly to Highlands, who threw him out. Kednie out, Frothingham to Trafford. Carter struck out. No runs.

Carter had struck out twelve men so far and Highlands nine.

Ninth Inning.—Cook out, Arbuthnot to stephenson. Highlands struck out.

Sullivan singled to centre. Trafford filed to Murphy, who muffed, and Sullivan ambled to third.
